Moodle and Rogo availability and downtime during December 17th-20th

Please note that essential maintenance work will be taking place on Moodle and Rogo in December - this is to update UK module codes in readiness for the switch from Saturn student records system to Campus Solutions.

A read-only version of Moodle, to aid revision, will be put in place for that four-day period but it will not be possible to submit assignments or view feedback in the revision-only version of Moodle.

What does this mean?

Moodle and Rogo will be completely unavailable for two hours from 8am to 10am on Monday 17 December.

Temporary revision-only versions of Moodle and Rogo will be available to support you with revision from 10am on Monday 17 December to 8pm on Thursday 20 December.

There will be a brief period of complete unavailability towards the end of the schedule before we return to the live versions of these systems.

What do you need to do?

Please note the following points when using the revision-only versions of these systems:

- Moodle will allow you to look at documents and resources but it is not for submitting assignments or posting in discussions during this time. Whilst you will be able to take part in some activities such as quizzes, anything you submit or change will not be saved in this revision-only version and will be unavailable when the full live version is restored. We recommend you download any vital resources you require from Moodle before Monday 17 December.

- You will be able to access self-tests for revision purposes when you login directly to Rogo during this time at https://rogo.nottingham.ac.uk/students/

To access lecture recordings in Engage whilst the temporary revision-only versions are in place, you need to do two things:

- Before 8am on Monday 17 December, click on lecture recordings in Moodle that you wish to view during the time when the revision-only versions are in place – remember to do this for all relevant modules. This will create links for you to use in Engage.

- When using Engage during the cutover period, you should login directly at http://echo360.org.uk/ using your university email and password.

When the work is complete

Once the maintenance work is complete you will see new UK module codes in Moodle and Rogo. Note that it is only the codes that will have changed, module titles and content will remain the same. If you are unsure which code relates to which module, you can view the complete list of module codes on the Module Codes Workspace site.
